OBJECTIVES

The main goal of this course is to help students improve their communicative competence in English according to the B1+/B2 level established by the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR). At B1+ / B2 (upper-intermediate) level, students are expected

(a) to understand the main ideas of complex texts on both concrete and abstract topics, including technical discussions in their field of specialization;

(b) interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible without strain for either part; and

(c) produce clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects and explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options. As for the different language skills, these are the competences students will be required to develop at this level:

(1) Listening. Students can understand extended speech and lectures and follow even complex lines of argument provided the topic is reasonably familiar. In addition, they can understand most TV news and current affairs programmes, as well as the majority of films in standard dialect.

(2) Reading. Students can read articles and reports concerned with contemporary problems in which the writers adopt particular attitudes or viewpoints. They can understand contemporary literary prose.

(3) Spoken interaction. Students can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible. They can take an active part in discussion in familiar contexts, accounting for and sustaining their views.

(4) Spoken production. Students can present clear, detailed descriptions on a wide range of subjects related to their field of interest. They can explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

(5) Writing. Students can write clear, detailed texts on a wide range of subjects related to their interests. They can write an essay or report, passing on information or giving reasons in support of or against a particular point of view. They can also write letters highlighting the personal significance of events and experiences.

METHODOLOGY

General clarifications on the methodology. (optional)

The methodology of this course in English will be student-centred and aimed at enhancing students' language skills (listening, reading, spoken interaction, spoken production and writing), creativity and self-confidence in using English to communicate with native and nonnative speakers of the language, in both speaking and writing. Therefore, students are expected to get actively involved in class dynamics, participate in the teaching-learning tasks proposed by the teacher, and contribute to the whole learning process in a wide range of individual, pair and group activities. The approach to English learning will be communicative, functional and pragmatic, and so the English language will be not merely an object to be subjected to theoretical scrutiny, but a genuine vehicle of communication and a tool of knowledge to access interesting interdisciplinary subjects which are absolutely relevant in today's world. So as to expose students to as much relevant input as possible, English will be the common language of classroom management and communication.

Methodological adaptations for part-time students

Part-time students have to contact the teacher at the beginning of the year.
