

Miguel Ángel Gómez-Nieto, is professorial chair for Computer Sciences and Artificial Intelligent and he is member of the Department of Computing and Numeric Analysis at the University of Cordoba.

Bachelor of Sciences in 1980 and Doctor Lecturer in the Chemical Sciences in 1982, since 1990 he is manager in the Software and Knowledge Engineering and Databases research group.

Since 1981 he has developed his teaching and research activities in computer sciences, he has been Computational Service Manager at the University of Cordoba from 1986 to 1989.

His teaching responsibilities are Data Bases, Software Engineering and Computational Systems Analysis and Design.

His research activities are oriented to new computational solutions in Chemistry, computer based solutions in the areas of Information Systems, QSPR/QSAR, learning and innovation teaching systems, extraction and knowledge representation, clustering, graphs, among several others.

